"Lobo" Your Home-Cooking Expert

Going back more than 30 years, a small food company was founded by Mr. Akom Palanuwech. While studying in the USA, he thought about the possibility of producing Thai food ingredients packed in sachets like the other Western food ingredients which were sold in supermarkets. He himself wanted to have some packaged curry pastes using Thai brands. After coming back to Thailand, he had a chance to start a joint venture company specialized in ingredients for sausages, ham and bacon under the company name "Griffith Laboratories Thailand Co., Ltd. Continuing on from this, he followed the project and produced the first three products under the "Lobo" brand name: Roasted Red Pork Seasoning Mix, Satay Seasoning Mix and Agar Dessert Mix. He later bought out foreign shares and founded "Globo Foods Ltd.". From only 3 items 30 years ago, it has become more than 100 items in the present day. Other than this, the company also produces seasoning powder, breadcrumbs, liquid sauces and ready-to serve foods for both domestic and foreign markets.

UNI-Aire Corp. started manufacturing heat exchanger, both in D.X. (direct expansion) and water system in 1972. During the '70s, the air conditioners market in Thailand was dominated by American brands such as York, Carrier, Kelvinator, and G.E. At that time, the air conditioners were mostly for hotels or shopping centers, and the demand for domestic air conditioners was very small. UNI-Aire Corp. gained some shares in the replacement parts of those American brand name products such as replacements for coils, water cooled condenser, and water chiller barrels.

In 1975, with the company's aim to substitute imports and to encourage more demand for domestic air conditioners, UNI-Aire Corp. started manufacturing air conditioning systems; floor and ceiling types, package type, commercial air conditioners, as well as chiller systems. "UNI-Aire" branded air conditioners have been widely accepted by the market and registered an average growth of 20% annually since then. The History of Webster University

In the early days of the American frontier, poor children were forgotten when it came to education. The Sisters of Loretto, a Catholic religious organization founded in 1812, set out to offer a solution.

The Loretto Community dedicated itself to providing education to those who normally might not possess an opportunity to obtain one. It's this mission that remains at the heart of Webster University today.

The Sisters of Loretto laid the cornerstone for Webster University on Nov. 1, 1915. Originally named Loretto College, the school was one of the first Catholic women's colleges west of the Mississippi River. It was progressive for its time, providing higher education to women when it was not generally made available.

Loretto College opened with eight Sisters of Loretto teaching class for students. Two students populated the first graduating class in 1919.

Five years later, in 1924, the school changed its name to Webster College to avoid confusion with Loretto Academy, a school operated by the Loretto Community on Lafayette Avenue in St. Louis. The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools accredited Webster College the same year.

Going Global

In the 1970s, few European universities offered a viable, American-style education. Webster College sought to be one of the first. In 1978, Webster opened a campus in Geneva, Switzerland, capitalizing on the global perspective the city would add to a student's education.

In 1999, Webster University's Thailand Campus was open. Adding a global perspective that stretches across the Webster curriculum.

When Banyan Tree Spa opened in Phuket, Thailand in 1994, it pioneered the tropical garden spa concept with its Asian therapies and holistic focus on spiritual, mental and physical harmony. As one of the pioneer oriental spas in Asia, it reintroduced an exotic blend of ancient health and beauty practices which have been passed down from generation to generation.

Like the tropical and sacred tree from which it got its name, the Banyan Tree Spa offers guests a sanctuary for the senses – a place for physical, mental and spiritual renewal. To achieve this, the Spa focuses on a non-clinical and holistic approach based on traditional Asian healing therapies. It emphasises on a 'high-touch, low-tech' approach that celebrates the human touch and the use of natural herbs and spices.

Banyan Tree Spa and Angsana Spa therapists are graduates of the accredited Banyan Tree Spa Academies first established in May 2001 in Phuket, Thailand, followed by Bintan, Indonesia, and Lijiang, China. The stringent training curriculum ensures therapists deliver the Banyan Tree Spa experience with a high level of consistency and quality, a promise many guests have come to trust from the evolving brand. Our intricate art of touch is the key to our expansion and global footprints, growing from one Banyan Tree Spa in 1994 to close to 30 Banyan Tree Spas and more than 40 Angsana Spas today.

Vanda Siam was established in Bangkok 2001 by Mrs. Sirirat Scholz.

At the beginning, Vanda Siam was acting as trading company with their own design for candles.

In 2004, Vanda Siam started to produce their own products, mainly floating flower candles in shape of roses, orchids, lotus flowers and others as well as coconut and bamboo candles. This step was taken in order to meet the requirements of high standard and quality of our customers worldwide.

Our employees are mostly recruited from our neighbourhood and are mainly housewives who support their families or newcomers who started their career after their study.

Strict quality control is observed at all stages of production at our factory to guarantee the quality and uniqueness of our final products.

We select raw materials carefully by ourselves and import items such as wick, colours and fragrance directly from reputed companies in Europe.

We are selling our products under the brand name Vanda Siam and can also offer our customers tailor-made products.

Today, we export our products worldwide to major markets such as Switzerland, Germany, UK, Italy, France, Poland, Middle East and Japan.

In order to produce more environmental-friendly products we now have added candles made of palm wax and soy wax to our production line.

In 2009, we have been awarded the Thailand Brand symbol as a mark of quality on Thai Export Products by the DITP.

Our aim and vision is to promote handmade and environmental-friendly candles of high quality made in Thailand to the world.

A group of 7 people to form a company to sell buckwheat pillow, imported natural raw materials from organic resources. After many hard years of struggling through good and bad economic, and all the natural problems.

We have given up so many times, because natural products is not the utmost convenient product, but the customer had to adapt themselves to use, (convenient truth) but we keep on our mission of bringing organic way of living until now.

We can stand here because we believe that we are from nature so we have to use product that is truly from nature with the less transformation process as much as possible. After we had found many customers and suppliers both local and international, they are organic, we have more inspiration to this sustainable life, and we are not the only one who believe this..slow living..long aging

The beauty and fine artistic work of goldsmith from Ayuthaya to Rattanakosin era was a great inspiration of the work of "Dhanu".

Rattanakosin goldsmith inherited the great legacy from Ayuthaya period where goldsmith was in golden age and was reserved only for royal families and aristocrats. Today, gold jewelry from the past spread to normal public. Yet, the tradition of ancient goldsmith is now threatened to vanish.

Dhanu Group , situated in Kanchanaburi Province, where one of the centers of Thailand's finest gemstones and artisans, was formed. Dhanu is aspired to revive the local knowledge and ancient wisdom of goldsmith in order to recreate masterpieces for new generations to admire and to bring this pride of Thailand to the world.
